This note is to ask you for your personal evaluation of [REDACTED] as a prospective recruit. [REDACTED] has submitted some supplemental information in addition to his original application of a year ago which he later cancelled in order to pursue his graduate training.

STATINTL

Anything you can tell us about your impressions of him as regards his academic prowess, his personal traits (does he work well with others, does he exhibit any qualities of leadership, is he a self-starter, etc.) and any other factors that you think we might wish to consider. The immediate reason for this note is that we notice that his transcript does not seem to indicate brilliant scholarship, yet on the other hand if I remember correctly you rated him high among your graduate crop at Washington this year in the course of your conversation with [REDACTED] and myself. Anything you can contribute in this regard will be much appreciated.

Best wishes,
